Ellsworth Vicinity Visited by Conflagration Hard to Control

FIRE FIGHTERS SUFFER

A spectacular field fire near Ellsworth Wednesday afternoon burned over eight acres of ground and was only prevented from spreading to the residence and outbuildings on the farm of Mrs. Smith F. Scott by valiant work of about 40 volunteer mefighters. The field that was burned over belongs to the Ellsworth Collieries company.

The fire started at 2 o'clock and was not under control until 4 o'clock. Some of the men were slighly burned. Children playing in the field are supposed to have started a fire. The Newsboys' Best Friend

JOHN E. GUNCKEL.

To give his description of his work among boys in Toledo, Ohio, and to tell his methods of uplift, John E Gunckel, known far and wide as "The Newsboy's Friend," is appearing at the Chautauqua tent this afternoon. Mr. Gunckel is just a sincere, plain man, who does his work unostentatiously, and tells about it in the same way. He has accomplished in Toledo wonders in the work of relieving the deplorable conditions in which "little merchants of the streets" live. He is the man who founded the Toledo Newsboys Association. Judge Ben B. Lindsey says he "regards him as one of the greatest champions of boyhood in the country and his work, especially among the newsboys, as unexcelled by any other man."

Gunckel and Quartet Chautauqua Features

Man Prominent in Work of Saving Boys Speaks This Afternoon---Prelude Concert Given by Members Redpath Grand Quartet

The Redpath Grand quartet, composed of four of the best known church singers in New York city, and John E. Gunckel of Toledo, Ohio, known far and wide as the newsboy's friend, are appearing today at the Charleroi Chautauqua tent. This afternoon two members of the quartet gave a prelude to the address by Mr. Gunckel that consisted of high class numbers. This evening the Redpath Grand quartet will give a concert consisting of some of the highest class music. The quartet has been together for some years and is composed of Frank Ormsby, first tenor; Dr. Ion Jackson, second tenor; Dr. Carl Dufft, baritone and Frederick Martin, bass with Miss Helen Wolverton, accompanist.

Though trouble by hoarsness, which he explained had come from competition with freight train noise at various points along the Monongahela valley, John E. Gunckel appeared to give his talk. His talk consists largely of a description of his work among boys. He told of the best methods of reaching boys and of rounding them out into useful men.

With fine spirit and admirable acting "Twelfth Night" the wonderful Shakespearian drama was presented at the Chautauqua tent Wednesday night by the Ben Greet players famous the world over for their interpretations of Shakespeare's masterpieces. It was their first appearance in Charleroi and they were greeted enthusiastically by an audience that jammed the tent.

GUNSAULUS LIKES CHARLEROI'S WAY

In speaking privately to a friend in Charleroi after his lecture on uesday night, Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus paid his Charleroi audience a high compliment. He said:

"For once I didn't need to use humor in my lecture. My audience was thoroughly appreciative, and it was possible for me to go ahead with the fundamental facts without resorting to the usual ancedotal method of compelling attention. I consider that something unusual and appreciate it."

PRISONS AND WORK.

Nearly every day some fellow objects to the idea of prison manufactured products, and probably he is just as sincere and well-meaning as the fellow who argues in contravention to him. But both are likely to be more or less lop-sided in their arguments if they have not given the matter deep study. That this is an absolute truth is proven by statements given by Chaplain Kiplinger of the Indiana State Prison. His statements come from first-hand information.

Chaplain Kiplinger tells that the superintendent of the one of the penal institutions of the country which is well known as a pioneer in prison reform, set out to study the men committed to it. He observed that there were many things lacking. Men were stoop-shouldered, hollow-chested, crooked-backed and had awkward legs. They lacked physical training. They lacked home-training. They lacked self-control. They were unable to direct their hands or feet or minds. Only 4.6 per cent had reached high school. Forty-three per cent had not reached the fourth grade in the public school. Twenty per cent were illiterate.

"In this institution," says Dr. Kiplinger, "the cleansing and awakening of the physical man was first attempted. Some were bathed daily and all at least weekly. They were trained by a skilled physical director. When their energies had been quickened, their nerves stimulated and their muscles steadied, they were put into a company and given military drill.

"In this institution thirty-six different trades were taught. All the young men committed to it were required to attend the school of letters, the lectures and other means of mental culture. Provision was made for moral and religious instruction. Every inmate was constantly employey from early morning until nine o'clock at night at some form of physical or mental work, with certain periods of rest and recreation under direction.

"The result has been the transformation of a class of so-called criminals from defectiveness and incompetency to useful citizenship. Seventy-five per cent nearly have managed to keep the law outside the institution and consequently have remained out of prison."

These men of whom Dr. Kiplinger speaks, while being taught professions or trades, produced constantly. They could not learn if they did not produce. A man could never learn how to make a certain kind of box if he did not make one first to ascertain the correct method of putting it togetner. It therefore appears that to insure future good citizenship prisoners must produce. If a man is taught something that makes him a good citizen, objections that he manufactured a few boxes or perhaps a table or two while in prison could not be serious. Reform prisons and remove graft, but let him be a producer if it will help him.

AUDIENCES

The statement by Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, the famous lecturer, that his Charleroi audience truly knows how to appreciate a lecture, meaning that he did not find it necessary to compel attention to fundamentals by anecdotal methods, was a fine commentary and a high compliment.

It has been remarked that a town is known by the entertainment it seeks. Going farther, it might be remarked that a town should be known by the way it acts at the entertainment it seeks. When a town seeks the very best in the way of entertainment and tries to get the very best out of what it seeks, it evidences a depth among its citizens that is bound to be productive of good results.

Of course Charleroi already knew, or thought it knew how to listen, but it took Dr. Gunsaulus to emphazise the fact. It is a fine compliment to be told that and our opinion is that Dr. Gunsaulus says mighty nice things. The compliment might be returned by the statement that the reason we listened is that the genial doctor's lecture was worth listening to.

Audiences are queer, but when you get the thinking men and women of a community together and produce a lecturer who knows his business and his subject, he is going to create an impression. The reason for a lecture is that it teaches people new things to think about, and thinking, to act. Dr. Gunsaulus' comments are highly complimentary simply because he tells us that we know how to think—that here is a people of depth. In other words he answers the question, Why is Charleroi.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Practical joking is all right sometimes," remarked a Belle Vernon man who called in Charleroi one day this week. He continued:

"A couple of years ago three others and I took a trip to Ashtobult Harbor. He went to the bathing beach and while we were watching one pushed me in. It was a joke that was enjoyed extremely by everybody but myself, and I—well, I just made the best of it.

"The best of it to me was hiring a bathing suit and, hanging my own clothes out to dry, going bathing. The other three looked on while in my mind was being framed a joke that was more original than their's had been.

"Suddenly I dashed from the water, enveloping them in a dash or spray. Hurdling them together I simply pushed the whole outfit into the water. You never heard such spluttering.

"I stood on the beach and roared. Never was there a better demonstration of the old proverb that 'he who laughs last laughs best.'"

In handling the slugs which make up the lines in a newspaper, and in separating the various items the makeup man sometimes gets the lines mixed up and they naturally read rather queer. As an illustration of what can happen an instance is cited of the mixup of the Bangor, Pa., News a few days ago when the printer got a wedding and an auction sale mixed up with the following results:

"William Smith, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Smith, and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm one mile east, in the presence of 70 guests, including two mules and 12 head of cattle.

"Rev.. Jackson tied the nupital knot for the parties, average 1,250 pounds on the hoof. The beautiful home of the bride was decorated with one sulky rake, one feed grinder and two sets of work harness nearly new, and just before the ceremony was pronounced the Mendel and Sons wedding march was rendered by one milk cow, five years old, one Jersey cow and one sheep, who carrying a bunch of bride's roses in her hand was very beautiful. She wore one light spring wagon, two crates of apples, three rakes of hay, one grindstone of mousseline de soie and trimmings with about one hundred bushels of spuds. The bridal couple left yesterday on an extended trip. Terms, spot cash."

HOME RUN BY STANIX WINS THE GAME FOR ROSCOE

The Charleroi-Roscoe game in the Monongahela valley league, which was played at Roscoe Wednesday evening was one of the most interesting games of the season. The only run that was made during the game was the home run of Stanix, of Roscoe in the first inning.

The game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness. Charleroi hit hard but was unable to score on their hits. A large crowd witnesses the contest.

GUNCKEL AND QUARTET

would have been used in the seventeenth century, but with costumes such as would hae been worn by the original Shakespeare characters. the players proved themselves dramatists of rare ability. The beautiful story with its numerous complications was never better told. All parts were capably taken from the serious minded part of Viola, around whom the play centers, to that of the irrepressible and inevitable fool and mimic Fabian. The strong drama of parts were produced with proper emphasis and the climaxes were wonderfully well portrayed. One of the strongest scenes was that near the close where Sebastian and his sister, Viola who had been masqueradi g as a courntier in attendance upon Duke Orsino, became united and their loves had taken what seemed a proper course. Sebastian being united w h Countess Olivia who had fallen in love first with his sister—thinking her a man—and the sister Viola finding in the noble duke a true lover.

The production of the Ben Greet players was preceded by a concert by the Zimmer-Havekotte trio of young women. This trio, composed of a harpist, a violinist and a pianist, displayed much talent, and to say their performance was one of the most pleasing of any musical attraction yet at the Chautauqua is only to state a self-evident truth. They appeared in the afternoon and made truly as great a hit as they did later at the evening performance.

In the evening trio, duet and solo numbers were rendered. One of the best numbers was a medley composed of grand opera selections beginning with the barcarole from the "Tales of Hoffman," by Offenbach" and ending with the beautiful Toreador song from Carmen. In solo work the harpist was remarkably good, the violinist was one of the very best and the pianist was a marvel of ability.

On Friday Sands Regimental band claimed to be one of the best bands ever connected with any Chautauqua organization will give afternoon and evening concerts. Miss Fanchon Eastman will appear with this band. Miss Bertha Pratt King will continue her series of morning lectures on "What the Twentieth Century Offers Women."

Girl Cannot Stop Sneezing

A specialist was summoned from Washington. The young woman's sneezing is said to have been caused by nervousness and throat trouble.

It doesn't seem to worry America to have that New York woman anarchist announce a hunger strike.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Miss BERTHA A. PELOQUIN, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LOUISA MYERS, Box 74, Massena, N.Y.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
